

Help the Troops – donate your old cell phones!

Have you been searching for a way to help the troops in Iraq, but haven't had the chance? An LSMS student, Michael Peterson, is organizing a project to help these wonderful service men and women.

Look around your house – do you have an old cell phone you're not using anymore? We will be collecting your old phones in the LSMS office. Phones will be sold and the proceeds will help pay phone bills for our troops. They get to talk to their families, and feel a little less alone.

Someone in your family has probably purchased a new cell phone recently. Get the old one out of the drawer, and help us to help our troops.
